

“MY DREAM”

I have a dream, a dream for people to LIVE IN LOVE; and by living in love, they will LOVE TO LIVE. My vision is one where we can build relationships by not judging others, regardless of their unique beliefs and convictions. This movement is one of true acceptance, accepting the person that we are first, and through this; come to a place of acceptance of others. My dream and heart is that people come to realize that they are on their own personal “hero’s journey” and that their natural attributes and abilities are “original medicine” to the world. The world needs, and is counting on, us to share this original medicine; unique only to us as individuals. My dream is to build a culture of change; a culture of healing. This culture is about becoming vulnerable, in the exact place we find ourselves, at this exact moment in life. Through this vulnerability, this courage to display our authentic self, we give the gift that the world needs for real and lasting change. Join me on this journey as we seek to change the world by telling our stories, one beautiful story at a time.
